

Abstract of the Disclosure

A safety belt retractor is provided that has a force limiting device that operates with a viscous medium. The belt shaft is adapted to be coupled with a central shaft that carries a socket type piston that is movable relative to a fixed counter socket, whereby due to relative movement the viscous medium is forced between the socket type piston and the counter sockets, thereby effecting a force limitation.